Course Tutor

Nick Beech

Nick Beech – Director of Executive Learning and Course Director for MSc Corporate Governance/Graduate CGI Nick's expertise is in the areas of leadership, coaching, governance, and boardroom behaviours. He has a wealth of experience having worked with a wide range of organisations across the private, public, and voluntary sectors. An accomplished entrepreneur, having sound local and international experience and is an inspiring organisational change agent. His focus is to help people to recognise and mobilise their and their organisations capabilities, to help them sense change in their environment, to see new horizons, to move the agenda and seize opportunities. His forte is to help leaders gain a deep understanding and insights into Board governance and grasp what is good and great practice is for their board, this includes the promotion of wellbeing within the organisation and the boards appetite for risk taking and consequence accepting. Through coaching he helps executives critique themselves to clarify their goals, aspirations and motivations and develop the skills and behaviours to make change happen, so they understand how to inspire and leader their people on their collaborative journey.
